Bacon Hog Demonstration Well Attended.

The meeting held Friday afternoon to discuss the raising of hogs proved to be very interesting, and the large number of farmers who were present were well repaid for their efforts in attending.

Professor Carlyle and Professor Sackville who conducted the demonstration were well pleased with the outcome of the meeting and remarked that while they had spoken to larger meetings, they had not met a more interested audience.

Mr. S. G. Carlyle, Livestock Commissioner, at the outset of his remarks went into the history of the bacon industry in Canada. About 70 years ago it was found necessary to find a market for the surplus of hogs, and it was found that England would pay the best price if they could get the product they wanted. It was found necessary to change the type of hog to meet the requirements, and a new named Wm. Davies made an importation of Yorkshire hogs and introduced them into Ontario. This is what put that province so far in the lead in the quality of bacon hogs.

The exports of bacon increased until it reached 150,000,000 lbs. per year, but after the war exports dropped and in 1931 only 10,000,000 lbs. were exported. At the Imperial Conference Canada was allowed a quota of 280,000,000 lbs., but in 1933 was only able to produce 80,000,000 lbs. suitable for export.

He described the type of hog required to produce the best bacon and exhibited several sides of dressed pork, showing the difference between butcher, bacon and select grades.

He said that what the packer wanted were hogs of the select bacon type, well finished at about 200 to 215 lbs. and advised that a Yorkshire, or a cross between a Yorkshire and a Tamworth, came nearest to the type required.

Professor Sackville, University of Alberta, spoke on methods of feeding. He said that the purpose of keeping hogs is to market grain, and unless they can turn this profitably over a period of years, they have no place on any farm. Records based on work at the University of Alberta over a 12-year period, taking into consideration value of grain and market price of hogs, has shown quite definitely that they offer a satisfactory medium through which to market farm grain. Converting a bulky farm product like grain into a finished product like bacon, simplifies the problem of transportation costs.

The fact that hogs are primarily consumers of grain (rather than

Red Cross Hospital Carries On

Despite many difficulties in the way of raising necessary finances, the excellent work at the Red Cross Hospital for crippled children in Calgary will continue.

This was the important decision reached at the annual meeting of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society held in Calgary on Saturday afternoon.

The president, Norman Hindsley, M. L. A., pointed out that in September, 1933 the executive was called upon to decide whether the hospital should be closed for lack of funds. It was finally determined to reduce the number of beds in the hospital and to make an appeal to the public for $15,000 to meet indebtedness.

While it is not anticipated that the entire amount asked for will be obtained, sufficient response has been obtained and is being made, to insure the continuance of the hospital this year at least, and a resolution was passed to this effect.

Cream Prices

Looking Up

Cream prices have raised another two cents and the Didsbury Creamery is now paying 27¢ for table and special cream.

This is a very satisfactory advance on prices of a year ago. In March of last year the prices were 20¢ for table and 18¢ for special.

(roughage), he said, means that grain alone is an unbalanced feed, and in order to secure maximum gains and the production of good quality bacon it is necessary to supplement cereal grains with feeds that will supply proper proportions of protein and certain mineral elements. Dairy by-products (skim-milk or buttermilk) where available, hold first place. Meat-meal (tackage) is a satisfactory substitute when fed in a proportion of about 8 lbs. tackage to 100 lbs. grain.

A simple mineral mixture made up as follows was recommended:

Slacked lime ..... 70 lbs.
Salt ..... 20 lbs.
Air-slacked lime ..... 3 lbs.
Sulphur ..... 1 lb.

Wheat and barley are the most satisfactory grains for feeding hogs, and oats, while they may be used for breeding stock, do not compare with either wheat or barley for pork production. Tests conducted at the University have shown that wheat excels even barley.

The use of sif feeders and pasture crops were suggested as a means of lowering the cost of production and cutting down labor costs.

Outlines C.C.F. Program.

A meeting of the U.F.A. was held in the Opera House on Tuesday afternoon, when questions relating to the U.F.A. and the program of the C.C.F. were discussed. Mr. Roy McNighton occupied the chair.

Mr. R. P. Pyle, of Pelly, came out for the Red Deer constituency, spoke on the work of the U.F.A. and stated that while the membership of the U.F.A. was considerably lower than it was a few years ago, during 1933 it increased almost 100 per cent over the previous year. He appealed to the farmers of the district to renew their membership and so help the central organization to carry on its effective work.

Mr. W. J. Schmidt at this point informed the meeting that membership in the Didsbury Local had increased to 35 and that committees were out to endeavor to raise the membership and were meeting with good success.

Mr. Arthur Riley spoke on "Co-operative Buying," and complimented the Didsbury Local on having the record for distributing milk, shipping in more cases than any other local. He advocated the merchandising of commodities at regular retail prices and paying a dividend of the profits to the member purchasers.

Mr. Norman Priestley, outlined the four principal points in the C.C.F. program, "Economic Planning," "Socialization of Finances," "Social Ownership," "Agriculture," and the "Labor Code." He said the aim of the C.C.F. was to replace the present capitalist system, with its inherent injustices, by a social order from which the domination and exploitation of one class by another will be eliminated.

He said that this social and economic transformation can be brought about by peaceful action, but that he did not believe in change by violent means. He claimed, however, that both old parties are the instruments of capitalist interests and cannot serve as agents for social reconstruction.

Numerous questions were answered by Mr. Priestley, and at the close of the meeting the three speakers were accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Priestley spoke at a meeting of the Young People's Club at Westerdale, and on Wednesday evening he spoke at the Mountain View Community Hall.

Didsbury Creamery Grades Highest

According to a government report, 283,000 lbs. of the Crystal Dairy Creamery stood at the top of the list in the percentage of sweet cream received at the creamery.

The local creamery paid table cream and special cream prices on 81.8 per cent of all the cream delivered.

The second highest was 54.2 per cent, while some creameries received as low as 12 per cent of sweet cream.

Seek Wider Powers of Enforcing Milk Control

More drastic measures of enforcement are necessary if legislation giving the public milk commission power to control milk prices is to be enforced, according to the local's annual report submitted to the legislature.

While the board has the right to determine class of prices to be paid in the milk industry, there is no power to compel or control such business when once formed. Such power would give more satisfactory results than is possible under the present penalty clause of the Public Utilities Act.

At the last session of the legislature an act was passed giving the board power to control milk prices, and also other products upon presentation to that effect. Unless further extended the legislation will expire July 1st next.

Fatal Car Accident East of Carstairs

Verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury investigating the death of J. H. Connolly, (Goodrich Rubber Co. Ltd. representative, of Calgary, who was killed in an automobile accident on the Roschud Hill, 5 miles east of Carstairs on Friday evening last. The jury exonerated Gordon K. Dundas, who was driving the car, from all blame.

According to the evidence Dundas was driving the car and when approaching the curve at the top of the Roschud Hill, Connolly, it is thought, mistook a snowdrift for a bridge, and violently jerked the steering wheel, swerving the car into the ditch. Connolly was thrown out of the car, and when help was at hand, it was found to be dead.

Dr. J. L. Clarke, coroner, conducted the inquiry.

WEEKLY JOKE

An inspector of city schools came to a class of girls. He wrote on the blackboard, "LXXX," then peering over his spectacles at the good-looking girl in the first row he asked:

"Young lady, I'd like to have you tell me what that means."

"Love and kisses," the girl replied.

Intolerance

Experiences in a great teacher, and the world is learning many things from this period of financial and economic difficulty through which it is passing. In the process of learning, it is, of course, not only absorbing new ideas and accepting new standards but it is abandoning old ideas and methods. The world is losing certain things it can well afford to lose, the loss of which can indeed be set down as gain. The danger is, however, that it will lose other things which it can ill afford to lose, and may accept and adopt things which will spell loss and disaster in the future.

Signs are by no means lacking that one of the greatest losses which the world of mankind may suffer as the result of the times through which we are struggling is the loss of much of the political liberty gained through centuries of persistent striving and battle. In one European country after another dictatorships in government have been set up in varying degrees and in somewhat different forms, but the effect in every instance is to deprive men and women of much of the political liberty and rights of citizenship they formerly enjoyed. One or two individuals, or a small group, backed by force are imposing their wills upon tens of millions of people.

Acceptance by people in many countries of these dictatorships is one of the phenomena of this age. It appears to be the outcome, not of one only, but of several reactions to the experiences through which people are passing. In the first place, many individuals have lost confidence in themselves and in their own abilities to manage their affairs and order their lives. With this loss of confidence there is, of course, loss of ambition and initiative. They are willing to throw up their hands, and let some other person, or group of persons, do their thinking for them and plan and manage their lives and life's activities. In a word, they have reached the stage where, as they ask for a bare material existence, and they want that without any effort on their part or even the trouble of thinking and planning how it may be obtained.

The second contributing factor to the phenomena we are witnessing is Fear. In the individual this is the outcome of the lack of confidence already noted, and it finds expression in public opinion throughout the State in doubts as to the ability of national institutions to withstand any attack that may be made against them. Thus the aspiring dictator who arises and proclaims his ability to handle the situation if only everything is left to him for decision and all necessary power is reposed in him for action. He promises quick action, decisive action, as contrasted with the slower, more moderate methods of democratic government. And because people are obsessed by Fear, and weakened by a loss of confidence in themselves, they are ready to follow the dictator, or grasp at the glowing promises of a man or a group who, in reality, are no greater, wiser, more competent or far-sighted than they are themselves.

More deep rooted is the third cause of this present day phenomena. It reaches back into the ages of the past, the dark ages of the world. At recurring periods in the world's history it rears its ugly head. It is Intolerance. It is never wholly absent but always subsiding in the hearts of the mankind ready to flare up again almost on provocation. It caused the great religious wars of the past; it caused the great racial struggles; it is deep rooted in social and economic struggles. Demagogues and dictators play upon this weakness of man. It is a brand they always use wherever it starts the fires of revolution.

The world today is witnessing a resurgence of Intolerance. There was much of it during the Great War; in fact, it was cultivated by all the warring nations in order to spur on their people in the waging of that titanic struggle. The world is paying the price of that folly now. It believed the Peace Conference, it has been the crippling factor in the councils of the League of Nations. It has been the narrow nationalism on the part of the nations, ever increasing armaments, every conceivable kind of trade-restricting device, in prohibitions, embargoes, quotas, in immigration prohibitions, in class struggles everywhere.

The Socialist-Communist leaders of Russia are determined to drive all Christian religion out of that great land because they are intolerant of everything but their own particular theory. Hitler and his followers are equally grim and determined against the Jews. Mussolini will brook no opposition to his own views and methods and relies upon the fact that he is in the majority. And people everywhere who have sustained losses and are in difficulty because of the world depression, instead of looking to the basic cause, unthinkingly follow the lead of the demagogue who, in reality, is only a man who has seized upon the property of the people who are responsible for all the difficulties, losses and suffering of others.

The world is going to lose much of the selfishness which has grown up, and around present day losses, and such loss will be gain. But is it also, through intolerance going to lose that liberty for man which has been won at such a great price? Is it true that man can only achieve a larger measure of material and economic comfort at the price of the loss of his spiritual and intellectual liberty and, in some measure at least, of his economic, social and physical liberty as well?

Intolerance may maintain dominance over men's minds for a time, but it will be but a temporary ascendancy, and such loss will be gain, but is it also, through intolerance going to lose that liberty for man which has been won at such a great price? Is it true that man can only achieve a larger measure of material and economic comfort at the price of the loss of his spiritual and intellectual liberty and, in some measure at least, of his economic, social and physical liberty as well?

Smothering Sensations Faint and Dizzy Spells

Those feelings of faintness, those dizzy spells, those smothering, sickening sensations which come over people from time to time, are warnings that should not go unheeded. They indicate an extremely unhealthy condition of the nervous system, and should be given immediate attention. Those suffering in this way will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy with which to reorganize their health, build up their run-down system, and bring back their bodily vigor. Ask your druggist for Milburn's H. & N. Pills.

Receives First Air Mail

Related Christmas Gifts Delivered At Copper Mine, N.W.T.

Winter isolation of the little post of Copper Mine on Canada's Arctic shore was broken January 25 with the arrival of the first air mail it has received.

The mail machine, piloted by Walter Gilbert, of Canadian Airways, made of a sensational dash to the magnetic pole three years ago, brought 600 pounds of mail including 8,200 first class covers for collectors from all parts of the world. Accompanying the shipment was Postal Superintendent Walter Hale, of Edmonton. Third man in the machine was Low Parmenter, air engineer.

Mail and related Christmas gifts from "outside" were distributed by Rev. J. Morris, Anglican missionary, who was sworn in as postmaster. Meanwhile, Parmenter, working in the shelter of a special igloo constructed by wading Eskimo hands to haul the nose of the big Junkers plane, checked over the motor in readiness for the return flight.

The new post office serves traders and trappers over a strip of Arctic coast 1,000 miles in length.

Canadian Composer

Celebrated Contralto Sings Songs Composed By Montreal Man

Sigrid Onegin, celebrated contralto, is proud to have in her repertoire a song written by the Canadian composer, Emile Renaud, of Montreal, whose works, she believes, will be famous in years to come.

"I was in Switzerland five years ago," she began, telling the story of her first meeting with him in the course of an interview. "One day I received a great pile of music from this Emile Renaud, who said he was an admirer of my voice. My accompanist and I went over the music and found some songs of rare beauty. I at once learned them and sang them for the first time on my next visit to Montreal."

No Danger From Gases

Deadliest Kind Can Never Be Used In War

By getting into a not bath the average person would be almost completely safe during a wartime gas attack. Dr. Francis Freeth, of the headquarters staff of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., said in a lecture at London.

Dr. Freeth ridiculed popular fears of poison gas as a war weapon. The deadliest gases, he said, can not be used in a war.

The only effective military gas, Dr. Freeth declared, is mustard gas, the value of which is now so small, he said, since complete defensive measures have been discovered.

Wonderful Jewel Display

Costly Stones Seen At Birmingham Jewellers' Annual Ball

An astonishing display of jewels took place at the first annual ball of the Birmingham Jewellers. Many single pieces of jewellery on view were worth more than $30,000 each. There were diamonds as big as dimes, black and fire opals, emeralds, rubies, amethysts, topaz, and pearls set in platinum and gold rings, brooches and neckties. The jewels, which were worn by England's jewelers' daughters, were worth altogether about $750,000. Mingling among the guests were armed detectives dressed in immaculate "tuxs."

Cost Of Municipal Government

The cost of municipal government in Canada in 1932 exceeded that of any previous year, according to a report of the Citizens' Research Institute, made public recently. In that year the per capita cost was $54.74, as compared with $53.12 in 1931, $50.62 in 1929 and $47.57 in 1928. Toronto was third on the list with a per capita cost of $64.61, behind Victoria with a cost of $80.55 and Edmonton, with $69.51.

Here's Quickest, Simplest Way to Stop a Cold

3. If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 4 Aspirin Tablets in a hot glass of water and gargle according to directions on box.

Almost Instant Relief

In this Way

The simplest method pictured above is the way doctors throughout the world now treat colds.

It is recognized as the QUICK-EST, safest, surest way to treat a cold. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you cough it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get Aspirin Tablets. Aspirin is the trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, and the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on each tablet. They dissolve almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Aspirin Tablets dissolve so completely they leave no irritating particles. Get a box of 12 tablets or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

Predicts Second Slide

Geologist Advises People At Frank, Alberta, To Move

Warning that the railroad, highway, telephone lines and homes of people in the valley should be moved, Dr. J. A. Allan, geologist at the University of Alberta, declared that a second slide is possible at Frank, Alberta.

"Three million cubic yards are definitely preparing to give way on Turtle mountain," he said. He declared that it was useless to attempt to dynamite slides but to clear the area "and let nature take its course."

Between 85 and 90 persons died in the slide, which occurred on April 29, 1903.

Dr. Allan said that he spent some time last summer in examining the mountain and found new fissures, some of them 40 feet wide and hundreds of feet deep, and giving off peculiar noises.

Probe Building Industry

Appointment Of Federal Government Commission Is Urged

Appointment of a federal government commission to investigate the building industry was urged in a resolution passed at the final session of the Canadian Construction Association, completing a three-day convention in Toronto.

The purpose of the commission, the resolution indicated, would be to maintain a more even level in the industry, abolishing the wide fluctuations through which it now passes from year to year.

The government was asked in a resolution to appoint someone from the association to sit with the government in all deliberations about unemployment relief insurance.

W. H. Yates, Jr., of Hamilton, was elected president. C. W. A. Bisset, of Vancouver, and Cecil Gunn, of Winnipeg, were elected western vice-presidents.

Asking Too Much

The manager called his office boy into his room and indicated his desk. "Look at this," he said sharply. "It is disgraceful! Why can't you keep it cleaned and polished as you do the bumper rail outside?" The boy shook his head sadly. "Well sir," he replied, "in the least put out, 'I can't very well slide down your desk.'"

More progress will be made by outlawing guns than by gunning outlaws.

Through traffic on the Peiping-Mukden railway in China has just been resumed.

A Coveted Honour

Manitoba Horticulturist Develops New Type Of Lily

Another popular assumption has been shattered by a drought champion from the West. While public opinion has identified Eastern Canada more or less as the hub of floral plant breeding in the Dominion, the winning of a highly-prized and signal honour by a Manitoban at the world's great horticultural center, the Royal Horticultural Society at London, England, has once more directed attention to the long list of champions emanating from Western Canada. A coveted honour, the Cory cup, has been awarded to Mr. F. L. Skinner, Drepmore, Manitoba, for breeding a new variety of lily which he has named the Maxwell. The cup is awarded to the originator of the best new variety of garden origin shown to the society during the year. The Maxwell lily was exhibited last July in London and the presentation of the cup will be made with due ceremony at the next annual meeting of the society this month.

Money Well Spent

It will cost $36,615,395 next year to operate the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force, the same figure as this year, it was shown in the financial estimates tabled in the house of commons. The total includes pay, clothing and allowances for the men, arms and ammunition, building and repairs to barracks, purchase of horses and dogs, and all items down the line to stationery and printing.

Mingovio, Scotland, has abandoned its street cars and is seeking government permission to operate trolley buses.

Have You Pimples or Boils?

Mr. T. A. Brown of 411 Wellington St., W., has a full case of boils. He writes: "I have tried every kind of medicine, but nothing has helped me. I have tried to get rid of my boils by using a lot of ointment, but it only made them worse. I have tried to get rid of my boils by using a lot of ointment, but it only made them worse. I have tried to get rid of my boils by using a lot of ointment, but it only made them worse."

Nearly Five Hundred Distinct Species Of Birds Are To Be Found In Canada

It is probably not generally known, and the statement may cause some surprise, that there are some 488 distinct species of birds in Canada. By "species" is meant "kinds of birds" that average as distinct from each other as dogs from cats, or horses from donkeys. If really fine points are considered all the bird forms that the expert ornithologist recognizes, viewing species as do cattle raisers when they discriminate between breeds of cattle, then the species would be increased to about 680 subspecies, or even more, depending on how finely it is desired to distinguish. All these birds cannot be seen at any one time or in any one place in Canada or, in fact, anywhere else. Each species has its own season and limits of distribution. Some are sea birds, rarely seen far from salt water, some are denizens of the deep forest, while others frequent open prairies, marsh or meadow according to their natural requirements. Some are eastern, others western, some northern, others southern. Many are just birds of passage through much of Canada, nesting in the high north, wintering in the new or far south from just below the international boundary to the humid tropics or even to Antarctica itself.

A certain proportion of these birds are just stray wanderers far from home, storm-blown winds, victims of wanderlust or pioneers seeking out new territory to inhabit. But with all these complications and restrictions of distribution almost any given locality in Canada can boast of more kinds of birds than most people realize. Ottawa is not a particularly birdy locality, although the country over, it occupies a fairly average or representative position in this respect, yet its latest list of Ottawa birds now contains 246 different species that have been actually observed in the Canadian Capital and the adjoining countryside at one time or another. Leaving out the occasional stragglers that are likely to be seen only by lucky accident, once or twice in a life time, there are about 200 birds that any keen and active observer can reasonably expect to meet in and around Ottawa sooner or later, and one hundred is not too many to hope to see in one day at certain favorable migrational seasons of the year.

Bird banding in Canada and the United States is continuing to afford much new and valuable scientific data concerning the general life histories and the migrations of native wild birds, many of which are of very great economic importance in their relation to man.

Because of bird banding many valuable records respecting the migration, range, breeding and wintering grounds and longevity of native wild birds are now available. Further success in bird banding depends very largely on the voluntary cooperation of private citizens in reporting any banded bird which may come to their attention to the central bureaus in Canada at the C. N. S. S. Persons in Canada who find banded birds are earnestly requested to help advance this valuable work by reporting the facts to the Commissioner, National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa. The finder will be supplied with full banding particulars for any banded bird reported.

Official bands are of aluminum or copper and are inscribed with a serial designation and a serial number. It is of course important that the band number be correctly stated in connection with reports concerning band recoveries. The banding of native wild birds is a scientific investigation, international in its scope, and it is being conducted by the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, and the United States Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington, D. C.

Band Broadcasts From 'Plane

Harp And Piano Only Instruments Not Taken Along

Jack Hyflon and his band flew over London for an hour and a half in an Imperial Airways liner and broadcast a program of music to the Post-office Exhibition in the Strand. The object was to test a new type of apparatus for the general post-office.

The principal tune, appropriately, was "I'm on the telephone now." Every member of the band took part except the pianist and the harpist, whose instruments were too big for the aeroplane and the flautist, whose flute was broken just before the band left Croydon.

King's English Best

George Bernard Shaw Ends Discussion Over Oxford Accent

If King George delivered a single broadcast in an "Oxford accent" his people would rise up and very day and proclaim a republic, declared George Bernard Shaw in a letter to the London Times.

The letter closes a battle over English "as she is spoke" which for many weeks has torn the learned professors asunder. The British broadcasting commission's committee over which Bernard Shaw presided began the whole thing by issuing another list of the pronunciation recommendations for announcers.

Should Cornish street in the best style of West End London rhyme with "pandit" or shouldn't it? And so on down the list. Newspapers wrote editorials. Indignant readers wrote indignant letters. The classically-inflected sought solace in scraps of Latin and bits of Greek. The vocally south strove with the north that is given to consonants.

Now Shaw ends the fray by declaring the King's own English is literally the best English, and slams hard at the Oxford accent.

"An Oxford accent," Shaw writes, "is considered by many graduates of that university to be the perfection of current English, but unfortunately over large and densely populated districts of Britain it irritates some listeners to the point of switching off, and infuriates some others as much they smash their wireless sets because they cannot smash the talker."

Need Not Fear Competition

Canadian Pulp and Paper Industries Can Carry On

Canadian pulp and paper industries need have no fear of competition from potential new output from the southern United States where southern pine is being developed as a pulpwood, if laboratory technicians in Canada progress at the rate they have in the past. C. C. Piche, chief forester, department of lands and forests, Quebec, stated at Montreal. He was addressing the annual dinner of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, of which he is president.

Holding up a piece of cellophane, Mr. Piche declared that if technicians in Canada could carry on with experimental work such as had led to the discovery of that by-product of pulp, the Dominion's pulp and paper industry could safely and confidently "let them make newspaper from southern pine, and let them make it all."

Good Citizenship

Development of good citizenship is a great art of young men was the most noteworthy result of the civilian conservation corps, Professor Nelson C. Brown, of the New York State College of Forestry, stated at Montreal before the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Large Sums Of Money Still Being Expended On The Collection Of Antiques

Tubercular Cows

Say Infected Animals Being Pooled In Ontario

In the absence of legislation, aiming it complicity to destroy tubercular cows, many of these infected animals are being pooled throughout the province, according to findings made public by the Ontario Veterinary Association in Toronto. The members of the association, who were adding their annual meeting, unanimously denounced such legislation which would compel the pooling, at least of tubercular cattle.

The law is now such that any farmer may have his herd examined free of charge by the government veterinary providing he agrees to having any cattle found tubercular marked with a "T" punched through the ear. But if a farmer engages a veterinary to examine his cattle, he is under no obligation to mark the infected animals and he usually sells them to some other farmer to recover whatever he may have invested in them. In this way they get pooled about the countryside.

Where the milk from such cattle is pasteurized, no danger exists to the consumer of the milk becoming infected with the disease, the veterinarians indicated. The real menace from infected cows concerns the health of people in rural districts, who rarely get pasteurized milk. The farmer's children are exposed to it; also the people in the village and towns in which he sells his milk.

French Penal Colony

Devil's Island Not Bad Place Starts Mining Operation

Devil's Island, French penal colony, the very name of which is synonymous in the popular conception with horror and privation, is not such a bad place after all, according to J. J. Willens, mining operator in the nearby territory of British Guiana.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Willens in an interview, "Devil's Island is a hospital colony and contains a sanatorium and other buildings. It is really quite a nice place and very interesting to visit. It is on the island of St. Laurent where the desperadoes who have made several attempts to escape, and are regarded as hopeless cases, are put to work in chain gangs, like they did in the southern states of America."

Population of Winnipeg

Winnipeg's population, exclusive of suburban municipalities, is 221,242, according to a completion completed recently by the civil assessment department.

THE LLOYD GEORGE PARTY ON HOLIDAY

Here we see Right Hon. David Lloyd George pointing out places of interest in the River Thames to his daughter Megan. Mr. Lloyd George and his family who spent one of the Liberal Parties in the House of Commons, are en route for London and Epsom for a long delayed holiday. Reports say it is Mr. Lloyd George's first holiday in two years.

One thing that the economic depression hasn't yet, at any rate, put out of business is the collection of antiques and the paying out of gaudy sums for the same. On an Ontario paper, in discussing the matter, puts it the all-absorbing work of these days "have not succeeded in diverting the world's attention from certain hobbies that relate to the collection of treasures valued because of their cost, their associations or their merit in art."

There was noted the other day the purchase, at a large price, by the British Government and the British Museum, of one of the oldest Bible scripts in existence. A few days later came word of the paying out of a large sum of money by a New York commission if some documents pertaining to very early days in the political life of the American republic. Now there is to be noted another "deal" that draws its inspiration from Napoleonic times. Some years ago Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick of New York and Chicago, purchased the famous gilded altar screen service that Napoleon I once presented to his sister Pauline, and her husband, Prince Camille Borghese. Mrs. McCormick paid $80,000 for it. A few days ago it was put at auction in New York by Mrs. McCormick, who now seems to be disposing of a lot of her knickknacks. Her daughter Muriel, whose husband is Major Elsie David Hubbard, of Middleton, Conn., tried to buy the dinner service as a unit for $200,000, but this was refused and it was sold in individual pieces, this bringing altogether $87,500. Then there were linens and lace that sold for $52,000. Linen and lace bed sheets went for as much as $425, and someone paid $150 for a lace handkerchief. The lace were museum pieces and had been on exhibition in a ward of the largest American cities. One man paid $4,000 for a point de Venice lace handkerchief, and another as readily parted with $3,300 for a seventeenth century lace coverlet. A woman further bought one lace coverlet, a simple little thing, for $375, and lost another when it was put up for a second time and bid up from $2,000 to $2,500. Another lady paid $8,100 for six pairs of silk dishes of Napoleonic vintage representing the same gilded age were snapped up at $1,250 each and a pair of candlesticks brought $1,300.

It is being deduced from these and other transactions of the sort that still a few people are betting on the idea that old society is going to continue for some time much as it has in the past, and that certain go-gaws of gold and silver, lace, diamonds, mahogany, alabaster, old paintings and precious stone will still possess monetary value in whatever brand of society the future may hold for us. Then, of course too, there is the natural appeal that antiques are so-called treasure. Even some of the seemingly most hard-boiled among men want up to the antique in life.

Such things, too, may raise their moral question in the minds of a few persons. In the light of such human suffering as exists today, it may be asked what is wrong with diverting large sums of money that are going out so freely in the requirement of material aid to the quivering a few lives from the scrap heap of underprivileged, distressed and men and women that is to be seen on every hand today? London-Vict. Register.

Motorists Pay Big Tax Share

Out of every $100 in cash receipts collected by the provincial government in 1932-33, Alberta motorists contributed $24.10, according to figures released Thursday by J. A.
McNeil, manager of the Edmonton Branch of the Alberta Motor Association. Of this amount $11.90 represented gasoline tax, while the balance represented registration and license fees.

Latest figures show that in 1932-33 a total of 11,87 per cent of Alberta's population, or 86,879, owned motor vehicles, and in that year they contributed 83,097,707 or 24.1 per cent of the cash revenue received by the province in the twelvemonth period.

Comparisons of contribution made by motorists in every $100 collected by the province in 1925-26 and 1932-33 follow, in that order: gas tax 40c, $13.40; license and registration $11.00, $13.10.

These figures demonstrate that the gasoline tax increased from four per cent per $100 in 1925-26 to 11.9 per cent per $100 in 1932-33, while license and registration fees increased from 1.1 per cent to 12.2 per cent.

Pheasants To Be Released By Sportsmen

With only one casualty recorded on the long train journey from Watertown, South Dakota, 299 live pheasants arrived in the city over the Canadian Pacific railway on Wednesday a term, consigned to the Northern Alberta Game and Fish Protective League, under an exchange agreement whereby an equal number of Hungarian partridge will be collected and sent back to South Dakota.

One of four of the new arrivals were cocks and the balance were hens. They had been fed and watered at intervals along the journey and were all in the best of condition.

A delegation of members of the league headed by Leonard E. Wize, president, were on hand to take receipt of the birds from Superintendent Ed. Nixon, local manager of the C.P.R. express and the majority of the birds were quickly shipped to various points around Edmonton.

Raise More Oats and Barley

In a recent issue of the Calgary Herald, the suggestion was made that an extension of the acreage sown to barley and oats in Alberta might reasonably provide for a reduction in the wheat acreage sufficient to satisfy the requirements of the international wheat agreement.
This suggestion appears to be a reasonable one and well worthy of consideration.

Oats and barley are the basis of livestock feeding throughout the province and there does not seem to be any great surplus of these grains. An increase in their production would certainly not affect international markets to any appreciable extent and a very convenient reserve of feed would be established on the country's farms. Only too many of our farms have badly needed feed on many occasions.

The problem of idle acres is one inextricably bound up with that of restricting wheat production. What can a farmer do with land taken out of cultivation, is a question that is puzzling many. The raising of a reasonable acreage of coarse grains seems to be the answer.

Dr. Liesemer Lectures at Brotherhood Meeting.

Dr. H. C. Liesemer very ably contrasted the ideals of Christianity and Marxism in an address before the Albright Brotherhood of Zion Evangelical Church at their February meeting.

He said that "Marx taught that man is a child of hunger and his hunger is mainly for food and social satisfaction. Jesus taught that man is primarily a child of God and that the other things are secondary. Marx believed that man's art, music, politics and even religion, are determined by his materialized; that theory spontaneous movement of the human spirit is to get food, satisfaction, comfort, etc." Jesus taught that man's contact with the unseen is the secret of his highest joy, and that his material life can and should be the expression of that contact and relationship.

"For whom and to what does man live today? That is the fundamental question," Marx says. "To this economic class." Jesus says, "To God." Christianity holds that none of man's lesser loyalties are final, not even those of family, class, nation, empire, profession or race. Jesus regards all men as brethren. That, then, is the end of race rivalry in the fight to the finish. Jesus Christianity has not yet, however, completed its transfer of life from a basis of force to a basis of love. It has hardly begun to organize life on the basis of brotherhood. According to the Christian ideal, all are brothers, beloved, belonging alike to one Father—God. Christians are controlled, not with Karl Marx, to wage a class war, but with Jesus Christ, to build a world fellowship.

"Marx held that private property produces Capitalism, and this inevitably means a clash with Labor, the exploitation of labor and the consequent struggle for control. Our machine production on such a large scale has produced a new class—the Proletariat. They are not the personal slaves of ancient society, nor the feudal serfs of the middle ages, but the wage-slaves of our modern world. The national interest of every individual in that class, both workers and leaders, is to fight it out and win, imposing control on the defeated capitalists.

"Such are the ideas and ideals which are in competition with Christ or the faith and practice of our modern world."

Dr. Liesemer ended his lecture with the statement, "that given a sufficient number of Christians with sufficient sacrifice and daring, it is my belief that Jesus Christ will win."
